What is Bank Account Verification?

It is a program that verifies the accuracy of the bank and account holder information that was supplied by a third party.

How does it work?

You enter the account number, account name and identification detail you were supplied into our online form, and in real time we tell you whether the information is accurate according to the bank's records (other optional info is also verifiable).

How much does it cost?

Five Rand per search.

My system can do the same, why should I use Veriseal?

- Our system is user friendly and very affordable.
- With Veriseal you can issue employees with separate usernames, negating the need to access your banking profile to do verifications.
- Users have no need to access your banking profile to do verifications on your behalf.
- All verifications are archived which allows you to search, download or print in a PDF format.
- Your account is pre-funded by yourself which eliminates unauthorized transactions.
